

Our Research

Below you will find some of our research with links to accessible summaries and full-length academic texts

Research is organised into key categories. Scroll down to find the category you are interested in or click on the heading box buttons below to be taken to the section.

Go

Go

Go

Go

Go

Go

Differences between the Family/Carer/Supporter

and Consumer Roles

Go

Go

Go

Effective peer employment with multidisciplinary organisational model for best practice

This paper discusses a best practice model for the effective employment of Lived Experience workers

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

‘You Don’t Know What you Don’t Know.’ The essential role of management exposure, understanding and commitment in peer workforce development

Effective peer employment with multidisciplinary organisational model for best practice

This study aimed to explore management understanding and attitudes towards Lived Experience workforce. The paper also aimed to explore workplace culture considerations that impact on Lived Experience roles and how management is contributing to it.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

How much ‘Lived Experience’ is enough? Understanding mental health Lived Experience work from a management perspective.

This research aimed to explore management understanding of the lived experience required for designated lived experience or peer roles within mental health.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

A role for Lived Experience mental health leadership in the age of Covid-19

This paper discusses the role for lived experience mental health leadership in the age of Covid-19.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Skin in the Game: The professionalisation of Lived Experience roles in mental health.

This study aimed to explore the arguments for and against professionalization are explored to understand the risks and benefits for the Lived Experience workforce.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

The stigma of identifying as having a Lived Experience runs before me: Challenges for Lived Experience roles

This research aimed to better understand the experiences of Lived Experience workers in Australia and the challenges and the challenges they face.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

Role titles and descriptions. Mental health Lived Experience workforce

An examination of example roles, specialisations, job titles and position descriptions for the Lived Experience workforce.

Go to Full TextDownload Summary

Take a gamble for high rewards? Management perspectives on the value of mental health peer workers.

This study aimed to better understand the views of management on Lived Experience work and it's value.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

Lived Experience practitioners and the medical model: World's colliding?

This paper explores the perspectives of individuals working in lived experience roles to understand their experiences in these roles.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Recovery as a Lived Experience discipline: A grounded theory study.

This paper explores the potential of Lived Experience workers in contributing to the implementations of recovery based service delivery within the Australian mental health sector.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Developing inclusive and healthy organizations by employing designated lived-experience roles: Learning from human resource management innovation in the mental health sector.

This paper explores the benefits that employing designated-lived experience roles can bring to colleagues and organisations in addition to service users.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Differences and Similarities between Consumer- and Caregiver - or Family Informed Peer Roles in Mental Health

An examination of the differences between Family/Carer/Supporter and
© Lived Experience Leadership 2021 | 8

Consumer Roles.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Employing people who have “been there, experienced that” to inform innovative HRM responses to workforce mental health issues: practice insights from industry

This paper explores the innovative HR practice of employing Mental Health Advocate roles at Energy Queensland.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Identifying barriers to change: The Lived Experience worker as a valued member of the team.

This paper explores the views of executives and senior managers, and why some organisations employ more Lived Experience workers than others.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Back to Top

Effective peer employment with multidisciplinary organisational model for best practice

This paper discusses a best practice model for the effective employment of Lived Experience workers

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

‘You Don’t Know What you Don’t Know.’ The essential role of management exposure, understanding and commitment in peer workforce development

Effective peer employment with multidisciplinary organisational model for best practice

This study aimed to explore management understanding and attitudes towards Lived Experience workforce. The paper also aimed to explore workplace culture considerations that impact on Lived Experience roles and how management is contributing to it.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

How much ‘Lived Experience’ is enough? Understanding mental health Lived Experience work from a management perspective.

This research aimed to explore management understanding of the lived experience required for designated lived experience or peer roles within mental health.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

A role for Lived Experience mental health leadership in the age of Covid-19

This paper discusses the role for lived experience mental health leadership in the age of Covid-19.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

The global need for Lived Experience leadership

This study aimed to examine global research, literature and professional experience to identify common challenges and experiences of the Lived Experience workforce, as well as future needs.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Skin in the Game: The professionalisation of Lived Experience roles in mental health.

This study aimed to explore the arguments for and against professionalization are explored to understand the risks and benefits for the Lived Experience workforce.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

The stigma of identifying as having a Lived Experience runs before me: Challenges for Lived Experience roles

This research aimed to better understand the experiences of Lived Experience workers in Australia and the challenges and the challenges they face.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

To disclose or not disclose? Peer workers impact on a culture of safe disclosure for mental health professionals with Lived Experience.

This paper explores the impact of the Lived Experience workforce on the disclosure of lived experience by mental health professionals to their colleagues in their workplace and strategies that encourage disclosure.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Take a gamble for high rewards? Management perspectives on the value of mental health peer workers.

This study aimed to better understand the views of management on Lived Experience work and it's value.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Lived Experience practitioners and the medical model: World's colliding?

This paper explores the perspectives of individuals working in lived experience roles to understand their experiences in these roles.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

Developing inclusive and healthy organizations by employing designated lived-experience roles: Learning from human resource management innovation in the mental health sector.

This paper explores the benefits that employing designated-lived experience roles can bring to colleagues and organisations in addition to service users.

Go to Full TextGo to SummaryBack to Top

How much ‘Lived Experience’ is enough? Understanding mental health Lived Experience work from a management perspective.

This research aimed to explore management understanding of the lived experience required for designated lived experience or peer roles within mental health.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

The global need for Lived Experience leadership

This study aimed to examine global research, literature and professional experience to identify common challenges and experiences of the Lived Experience workforce, as well as future needs.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

To disclose or not disclose? Peer workers impact on a culture of safe disclosure for mental health professionals with Lived Experience.

This paper explores the impact of the Lived Experience workforce on the disclosure of lived experience by mental health professionals to their colleagues in their workplace and strategies that encourage disclosure.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Recovery as a Lived Experience discipline: A grounded theory study.

This paper explores the potential of Lived Experience workers in contributing to the implementations of recovery based service delivery within the Australian mental health sector.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Employing people who have “been there, experienced that” to inform innovative HRM responses to workforce mental health issues: practice insights from industry

This paper explores the innovative HR practice of employing Mental Health

Advocate roles at Energy Queensland.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

A Model for Understanding Lived Expertise to Support Effective Recruitment of Peer Roles

This paper explores views on the essential knowledge and skills derived from lived experience to inform the design of peer roles and support effective recruitment.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Back to Top

Effective peer employment with multidisciplinary organisational model for best practice

This paper discusses a best practice model for the effective employment of Lived Experience workers

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

‘You Don’t Know What you Don’t Know.’ The essential role of management exposure, understanding and commitment in peer workforce development

Effective peer employment with multidisciplinary organisational model for best practice

This study aimed to explore management understanding and attitudes towards Lived Experience workforce. The paper also aimed to explore workplace culture considerations that impact on Lived Experience roles and how management is contributing to it.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

How much ‘Lived Experience’ is enough? Understanding mental health Lived Experience work from a management perspective.

This research aimed to explore management understanding of the lived experience required for designated lived experience or peer roles within mental health.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

A role for Lived Experience mental health leadership in the age of Covid-19

This paper discusses the role for lived experience mental health leadership in the age of Covid-19.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

The stigma of identifying as having a Lived Experience runs before me: Challenges for Lived Experience roles

This research aimed to better understand the experiences of Lived Experience workers in Australia and the challenges and the challenges they face.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

Take a gamble for high rewards? Management perspectives on the value of mental health peer workers.

This study aimed to better understand the views of management on Lived Experience work and it's value.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

Developing inclusive and healthy organizations by employing designated lived-experience roles: Learning from human resource management innovation in the mental health sector.

This paper explores the benefits that employing designated-lived experience roles can bring to colleagues and organisations in addition to service users.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

Employing people who have “been there, experienced that” to inform innovative HRM responses to workforce mental health issues: practice insights from industry

This paper explores the innovative HR practice of employing Mental Health Advocate roles at Energy Queensland.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Identifying barriers to change: The Lived Experience worker as a valued member of the team.

This paper explores the views of executives and senior managers, and why some organisations employ more Lived Experience workers than others.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

A Model for Understanding Lived Expertise to Support Effective Recruitment of Peer Roles

This paper explores views on the essential knowledge and skills derived from lived experience to inform the design of peer roles and support effective recruitment.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Back to Top

How much ‘Lived Experience’ is enough? Understanding mental health Lived Experience work from a management perspective.

This research aimed to explore management understanding of the lived experience required for designated lived experience or peer roles within mental health.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

To disclose or not disclose? Peer workers impact on a culture of safe disclosure for mental health professionals with Lived Experience.

This paper explores the impact of the Lived Experience workforce on the disclosure of lived experience by mental health professionals to their colleagues in their workplace and strategies that encourage disclosure.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Role titles and descriptions. Mental health Lived Experience workforce

An examination of example roles, specialisations, job titles and position descriptions for the Lived Experience workforce.

Go to Full Text

Download Summary

Lived Experience practitioners and the medical model: World's colliding?

This paper explores the perspectives of individuals working in lived experience roles to understand their experiences in these roles.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Differences and Similarities between Consumer- and Caregiver - or Family Informed Peer Roles in Mental Health

An examination of the differences between Family/Carer/Supporter and Consumer Roles.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

A Model for Understanding Lived Expertise to Support Effective Recruitment of Peer Roles

This paper explores views on the essential knowledge and skills derived from lived experience to inform the design of peer roles and support effective recruitment.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Back to Top

The stigma of identifying as having a Lived Experience runs before me: Challenges for Lived Experience roles

This research aimed to better understand the experiences of Lived Experience workers in Australia and the challenges and the challenges they face.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Role titles and descriptions. Mental health Lived Experience workforce

An examination of example roles, specialisations, job titles and position descriptions for the Lived Experience workforce.

Go to Full Text

Download Summary

Developing inclusive and healthy organizations by employing designated lived-experience roles: Learning from human resource management innovation in the mental health sector.

This paper explores the benefits that employing designated-lived experience roles can bring to colleagues and organisations in addition to service users.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Exploring issues of culture in peer work - A qualitative study

This paper examines the experiences of CARM peer workers in behavioural health settings, focusing on the systemic barriers they encounter and the implications for improving equity, inclusion, and cultural responsiveness within peer workforces and organisations.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Back to Top

Differences and Similarities between Consumer- and Caregiver - or Family Informed Peer Roles in Mental Health

An examination of the differences between Family/Carer/Supporter and Consumer Roles.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Role titles and descriptions. Mental health Lived Experience workforce

An examination of example roles, specialisations, job titles and position descriptions for the Lived Experience workforce.

Go to Full Text

Download Summary

Back to Top

A role for Lived Experience mental health leadership in the age of Covid-19

This paper discusses the role for lived experience mental health leadership in the age of Covid-19.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

The stigma of identifying as having a Lived Experience runs before me: Challenges for Lived Experience roles

This research aimed to better understand the experiences of Lived Experience workers in Australia and the challenges and the challenges they face.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Take a gamble for high rewards? Management perspectives on the value of mental health peer workers.

This study aimed to better understand the views of management on Lived Experience work and it's value.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Lived Experience practitioners and the medical model: World's colliding?

This paper explores the perspectives of individuals working in lived experience roles to understand their experiences in these roles.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

Developing inclusive and healthy organizations by employing designated lived-experience roles: Learning from human resource management innovation in the mental health sector.

This paper explores the benefits that employing designated-lived experience roles can bring to colleagues and organisations in addition to service users.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

Identifying barriers to change: The Lived Experience worker as a valued member of the team.

This paper explores the views of executives and senior managers, and why some organisations employ more Lived Experience workers than others.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

Exploring issues of culture in peer work - A qualitative study

This paper examines the experiences of CARM peer workers in behavioural health settings, focusing on the systemic barriers they encounter and the implications for improving equity, inclusion, and cultural responsiveness within peer workforces and organisations.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Back to Top

Effective peer employment with multidisciplinary organisational model for best practice

This paper discusses a best practice model for the effective employment of Lived Experience workers

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

‘You Don’t Know What you Don’t Know.’ The essential role of management exposure, understanding and commitment in peer workforce development

Effective peer employment with multidisciplinary organisational model for best practice

This study aimed to explore management understanding and attitudes towards Lived Experience workforce. The paper also aimed to explore workplace culture considerations that impact on Lived Experience roles and how management is contributing to it.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

A role for Lived Experience mental health leadership in the age of Covid-19

This paper discusses the role for lived experience mental health leadership in the age of Covid-19.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

The global need for Lived Experience leadership

This study aimed to examine global research, literature and professional experience to identify common challenges and experiences of the Lived Experience workforce, as well as future needs.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Skin in the Game: The professionalisation of Lived Experience roles in mental health.

This study aimed to explore the arguments for and against professionalization are explored to understand the risks and benefits for the Lived Experience workforce.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

The stigma of identifying as having a Lived Experience runs before me: Challenges for Lived Experience roles

This research aimed to better understand the experiences of Lived Experience workers in Australia and the challenges and the challenges they face.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

The stigma of identifying as having a Lived Experience runs before me: Challenges for Lived Experience roles

This research aimed to better understand the experiences of Lived Experience workers in Australia and the challenges and the challenges they face.

Go to Full TextGo to Summary

Role titles and descriptions. Mental health Lived Experience workforce

An examination of example roles, specialisations, job titles and position descriptions for the Lived Experience workforce.

Go to Full TextDownload Summary

Take a gamble for high rewards? Management perspectives on the value of mental health peer workers.

This study aimed to better understand the views of management on Lived Experience work and it's value.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Developing inclusive and healthy organizations by employing designated lived-experience roles: Learning from human resource management innovation in the mental health sector.

This paper explores the benefits that employing designated-lived experience roles can bring to colleagues and organisations in addition to service users.

Go to Full Text

Go to Summary

Summary: National Lived Experience (Peer) Workforce Development Guidelines

Lived Experience Training \(.org\) (2025)

Download

What's in the National Lived Experience (Peer) Workforce Development Guidelines and Where to Find What You're Looking For

Chapman, M., Byrne, L. (2022)

Download

National Lived Experience (Peer) Workforce Development Guidelines

Byrne, L., Wang, L., Roennfeldt, H., Chapman, M., Darwin, L., Castles, C.,
Craze, L., Saunders, M. (2021)

Go to Full Text

Back to Top

Lived Experience Training

Check out our website with courses to embed the research findings and build strong understanding of Lived and Living Experience workforces and practice.

Go to website